Compsci 101- A Poem
In Duke's CompSci 101,
We learned about Python, and had some fun.
With coding puns aplenty,
We laughed until our sides were plenty.

We typed and typed until we knew,
The ins and outs of variables and loops, too.
And when our APTs were just right,
The green confirmation mark was quite a sight.

But oh, the frustration when just one test,
Would fail and put our skills to the test.
We searched for the error with all our might,
And debugged until we saw the light.

In Python we found a language so sleek,
That coding felt like a breeze, not like a freak.
With its libraries and modules galore,
Our projects became so much more.

So here's to Duke's CompSci 101,
Where we learned to code, and had some fun.
May our Python skills continue to grow,
And our programs run smoother than a pro.
